Fresher

I'm a Electronics and Telecommunications Engineer whose passion lies in computer programming. In my work as an engineer I've had to use a lot of counter intuitive software. Curious as to why these programs worked the way they do, I started learning how to code. As i started learning I've came across many technologies. This passion carried me through my education. I studied new languages, algorithms, technology, compilers. And it was here that i learned truly how much there was to learn yet. Now I'm further expanding my knowledge in developing, implementing and integrating new application.
